

MEMORIES OF BARRINGTON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

From John Williams:

Constantly playing marbles on the playground. Having a beloved steelie or cats eye that you never play for keeps with.

Playing four square at recess.

Reading groups and controlled readers in 3rd and 4th grade.

Maintaining a slam book in 6th grade where we each answered embarrassing questions about ourselves.

Jr. Dance lessons in 6th grade.

Keeping reading lists over the summer.

Going to school the first day to see your assigned room.

Volunteering for patrol duty at the intersections wearing a harness and holding a flag and being rewarded with a trip to the Shrine circus at the end of the school year.

Having your mom be a room Mother who would bring treats to school on special occasions.

Taking stringed instrument lessons in the cafeteria.

Wearing your cub scout uniform to class.

Forgetting your lunch and being called to the office.

Playing kickball at recess.

Being able to walk the dog and go around the world with your yoyo.

Having a male teacher!

Hot chocolate after Kinder Key caroling.
