

CR HONORS CO-EDITORS

According to Cub Reporter sponsors, Susan Ransom and Marty Hair have been two most outstanding editors this year. They have taken on a very difficult and time-consuming job with mature and enthusiastic responsibility, and for both girls the newspaper is only one among many activities which keep them busy.

Susan is also a member of Student Council and G.A.A. where her favorite sport is volleyball. She is kept busy babysitting, too with her five younger sisters.

Susan and her family moved to Columbus when she was five, and they have resided in Arlington for all her school years. Outside of school, she enjoys taking piano lessons; and, it is reported that as an excellent seamstress, she makes many of her own clothes.

The 5'3" brown-eyed student has been on the Honor Roll for her three years at Jones, and this summer she plans to take a typing course in summer school. She also plans a trip to Lake Erie this summer and possibly a trip to Canada with her family.

Sue's talented co-editor is Marty Hair, a ninth grader who moved to Arlington last year from Park Forest, Illinois. Marty has a brother, 21, who is now in the Navy. In addition to Cub Reporter she is also accompanied for the Jones choral groups, for which she is well-prepared, having taken piano lessons for six years. She is secretary of French Club, a member of G.A.A., a participant in Show of Shows, and a member of the Snow Princess Court. Outside of school, Marty is especially interested in interior decorating.

Both Marty and Susan are interested in journalism and have tentative plans to pursue it as a career; and we are certain that the Jones student body would be anxious to recommend them to any newspaper staff, due to a job well done.
